PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT

DECEMBER 13th, 1907.

GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES:

I have the honor to submit my annual report for the year 1906-1907.

Since my last report we have had the pleasure of receiving the following additions to the teaching staff of the University:

Professor Edward Capps, Professor of Classics, who graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Illinois College in 1887 and who was Instructor in Greek and Latin in his alma mater, 1887-1888; who pursued graduate studies in Greek, Latin and Sanskrit at Yale University from 1888 to 1891, and who received from that institution in 1891 the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Mr. Capps was Instructor in Latin in Yale, 1890-1891; Tutor in Latin in the same institution, 1891-1892; Assistant Professor of Greek at the University of Chicago, 1892-1896; studied in the American School for Classical Studies at Athens, and at the Universities of Berlin, Munich, and Halle from 1893 to 1895; became Associate Professor of Greek at the University of Chicago in 1896, and Professor of Greek in the same institution in 1900, the chair which he occupied until coming to us. He was Lecturer on Greek Comedy and the Greek Theatre at Harvard University during the first half year, 1904-1905, and was Managing Editor of Classical Philology from 1906 to 1907.

He is at present President of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South. Professor Capps' reputation as a classical scholar has placed him in the front rank of the students of the classical languages, and it is with especial pleasure that we welcome him to Princeton, where the faith in the disciplinary and illuminating power of those languages still continues vivid and effectual.

Mr. LeRoy Carr Barret, Preceptor in Classics, was graduated from Washington and Lee University with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1897 and received the degree of Master of Arts from the same university in the following year. From 1900 to 1903 he was a student of Sanskrit, Latin, and Greek at Johns Hopkins University, where for two years he held the Fellowship in Sanskrit. From 1903 to 1907 he served as Instructor in Latin in Johns Hopkins University.

Mr. Austin Morris Harmon, Preceptor in Classics, was graduated from Williams College with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1902. In 1903, after a year of graduate study at Yale University, he received from that institution the degree of Master of Arts. During the year 1903-1904 he continued his classical studies at Yale, and from 1904 to 1907 was a student at the American School of Classical Studies in Rome, where for two years he was a Fellow of the school and during the third year Carnegie Fellow in Classical Archæology.

Mr. Régis Michaud, who joins the staff of the University as Preceptor in Modern Languages, was graduated Bachelier ès lettres from the University of Lyons, France, in 1898, and in 1905 received the degree of Licencié ès lettres from the University of Paris. From 1903 to 1906 he was a student of Romance Philology at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes and Collège de France. From 1904 to 1906 he was Professor of French Literature at the Guilde Internationale in Paris. In 1906 he accepted a place on the teaching staff of the Rosemary Hall School at Greenwich, Connecticut, from which school he was called to Princeton.

The following have received appointments as Instructors or Assistants in the University: In Philosophy, George Washington Tapley Whitney, Ph.B., University of Vermont, 1897, A.M. 1902, Ph.D. Cornell University, 1903; and Clement Leslie Vaughan, A.B. Harvard University 1903, Ph.D. 1905. In His- tory and Politics, Benjamin Marsden Price, A.B. Princeton, 1904, B.C.L. Oxford University, 1907; Edwin William Pahlow, B.L. Wisconsin University, 1899, M.L., 1900, M.A. Harvard University, 1901; and Ivory Victor Iles, A.B. University of Kansas, 1904, A.M., 1905. In Classics, William Alexander Fleet, A.B. and A.M. University of Virginia, 1904; Paul Nixon, B.A. Wesleyan University, 1904, and M.A., 1905; Harry Brown Van Deventer, A.B. Yale University, 1903, A.M., 1904, Ph.D., 1907; and Herbert Pierrepont Houghton, A.B. Amherst College, 1901, A.M., 1904, Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University, 1907. In Mathematics, Elijah Swift, A.B., Harvard University, 1903, A.M., 1904, Ph.D., University of Göttingen, 1907. In Chemistry, William Richey Hulsizer, A.B. Princeton, 1907, and Isaac Ripple Schumaker, A.B. Princeton, 1907. In Civil Engineering, Nathaniel Dain, C.E. Princeton, 1907, Harry Newton Clark, C.E. Princeton, 1907, and William Earle Cory, C.E. Princeton, 1907. Mr. Price, Mr. Fleet and Mr. Nixon have for three years been Rhodes Scholars at the University of Oxford, Mr. Price at Wadham College, Mr. Fleet at Magdalen College, and Mr. Nixon at Balliol.

Dr. Duane Reed Stuart, last year Preceptor in Classics, has been advanced to the rank of Professor of Classics; and Mr. Christian Gauss, last year Preceptor in Modern Languages, has been advanced to the rank of Professor of Modern Languages.

Three Preceptors of last year's staff have resigned: Dr. Hiram Bingham, of History and Politics, to pursue studies in the history of South America which made long periods of residence in the field of his studies necessary; Dr. Henry Russell Spencer, of History and Politics, to accept the headship of a department at the University of Ohio; and Mr. Fred LeRoy Hutson, of the Department of Classics, to pursue further studies in his chosen field, which he had long had in contemplation.

Nothing specially calling for report has marked the progress of the year. It was a season passed in a quiet adjustment of the work of the class-room and preceptorial conference to the new plans and methods of study which have been instituted during the last five years of the administration of the University. I think that I can say that we have become still more deeply convinced by reason of the quiet and substantial success of our new plans that we have passed the period of experiment and are entering a period of satisfactory fruition. I think that my colleagues of the faculty would agree with me in saying that the work of the year was more solidly done and was lifted to a higher level than the work of any previous year that we remember. We feel that we have reason to congratulate ourselves upon the way in which the new course of study and the new methods of instruction have stood the test of use and experience. No modifications of any consequence have been necessary since the outset, and we hope that further experience will only confirm our success.

The comfort and convenience of class-room work and of preceptorial conferences have been immeasurably increased by the completion of McCosh Hall, a building which has in use confirmed in every way our anticipation of what it would be. It has increased our class-room space sufficiently to relieve entirely the old congestion, and it has added to the old rooms rooms of delightful proportion and unusual beauty and dignity. The building is a remarkable monument alike to the generosity and to the good taste of the donors, and the architect is deserving of very warm praise for the care and success with which he has worked out its spacious and convenient arrangements.

On the thirty-first of October last we had the pleasure of unveiling a beautiful sun-dial presented to the University by the generosity of Sir William Mather. The dial is an exact reproduction of the historic sun-dial constructed in 1551 by Charles Turnbull, that stands in the quadrangle of Corpus Christi College at Oxford. It is monumental in character, standing upon a broad base and lifting its shaft with the emblematic pelican borne upon its top to a height of more than twenty feet. It is placed just north of McCosh Hall in the newly graded portion of the ground which will constitute the court of the quadrangle of buildings which we have planned sooner or later to draw about the space behind Marquand Chapel. The unveiling of the sun-dial was rendered a very notable ceremony by the presence of the Right Honorable James Bryce, the British Ambassador to the United States, who, as a friend of Sir William Mather's, as a representative by long and distinguished connection of Oxford University, and as the spokesman of good will between the two nations, presented this singular and significant gift to the University in the name of the donor in a way which all who were present will long remember. It is pleasant to add that this interesting gift was made by Sir William Mather with the very cordial consent and good wishes of the authorities of Corpus Christi College.

Work has begun and is being rapidly pushed forward on the foundations of the new Physical Laboratory which it is hoped will be completed by the beginning of the academic year 1908-1909. This laboratory has been planned upon the most liberal scale and will be one of the most notable additions ever made to the teaching facilities of the University in the field of science.

The total number of graduate students, which was last year 112, is this year 113. Of this number 46 are devoting themselves exclusively to graduate study as against 38 last year, and 67 are combining graduate study in the University with work in Princeton Theological Seminary. Of the 46 regular graduate students, ten are in residence at Merwick and sixteen take their meals there.

The following table shows the number admitted to the University as undergraduates this year as compared with last:

	<hr/>	<hr/>
Freshmen without conditions..	146	128
Freshmen with conditions....	202	230
Specials	13	21
Seniors	2	3
Juniors	4	2
Sophomores	11	16
Totals	378	400

Of the students admitted upon examination in 1906, twenty-six for one reason or another did not come. Of those admitted this year, thirty did not come. So that the corrected figures for the two years are: 1906, 352; 1907, 370. The number of freshmen who entered the University in 1906 was 322, in 1907, 328, a gain of six in the entrance figures of this year as compared with those of last year. To these statistics the following should, for the full information of the Board, be added:

	<hr/>	<hr/>
Examined but not admitted	72	80
Preliminary and partial examinations . . .	455	485

There was thus a gain of thirty in the number of preliminary and partial examinations this year as compared with a gain of eighteen last year and a loss of forty-eight the year preceding.

The total undergraduate enrollment of the University is 1188 and was last year 1235, a decrease of forty-seven. The figures of last year showed a decrease of forty-four as compared with the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

WOODROW WILSON.
